Description

Sylvia Burnside grew up near Glasgow, but now lives with her family in the County Antrim countryside in Northern Ireland. She is best known for her regular work as a soloist with the New Irish Choir and Orchestra, with whom she has featured on BBC Songs of Praise and in concert venues across Ireland. Educated at the Royal Conservatoire of Scotland and the University of Ulster, she now spends a great deal of her time sharing her skills and musicianship having established a strong reputation as an excellent vocal teacher to several hundred pupils.

Sylvia believes passionately in the power of songs to express profound emotion and heal wounds in both the singer and the listener. She loves to communicate the story of a song in a way which opens up a meaningful connection with her listeners. As a Christian, it is her privilege to pass on songs which have blessed and encouraged her in her own spiritual journey, with a prayerful desire that all who listen will know the God who reassures us that there is No Need To Fear.

“To Jonathan, Clara, the Board and the whole broader family of New Irish Arts, I want to thank you sincerely for instigating this project. It has been so exciting and moving to work with you on this album. I am indebted to you for the many thoughtful investments you make, both in the music and in individual lives * To Mum, Richard and the kids, thank you for your support and prayers over years – it’s always felt and always appreciated * Also to the many friends who have pointed the way ahead, creatively steered and encouraged – thank you. May God richly bless all who listen to these songs.”

New Irish Choir and Orchestra is a vibrant group of Christian musicians who aim to present Christianity through the Arts. Founded in 1994 by modern hymn writer Keith Getty, they are now directed by Jonathan Rea.

The Choir & Orchestra appear frequently on BBC Songs of Praise and regularly broadcast services on BBC and RTE TV and radio. They have worked in partnership with Keith and Kristyn Getty, Rend Collective, Stuart Townend, Matt Redman, Michael Card, Sara Groves, Robin Mark, Joanne Hogg, Bluetree and many others.

Their work includes sell-out concerts in the major Irish concert halls, worship leading at conferences, a 100 strong youth choir for teenagers and many events in partnership with organisations such as Tearfund, Open Doors and local churches.

The Message Trust – Eden: Unfinished

Description

Unfinished is a beautiful collection of stories from across the Eden Network in the UK and beyond. With brand-new photography and fresh first-hand stories, it will leave you inspired and encouraged by the transformed lives and communities we're working in every day.

Some of the stories in this collection appear to end neatly, others do not. Each is just a snapshot from the life of an 'unfinished' person in an 'unfinished' neighbourhood. Until Christ returns to restore creation, our communities and our lives remain... unfinished.

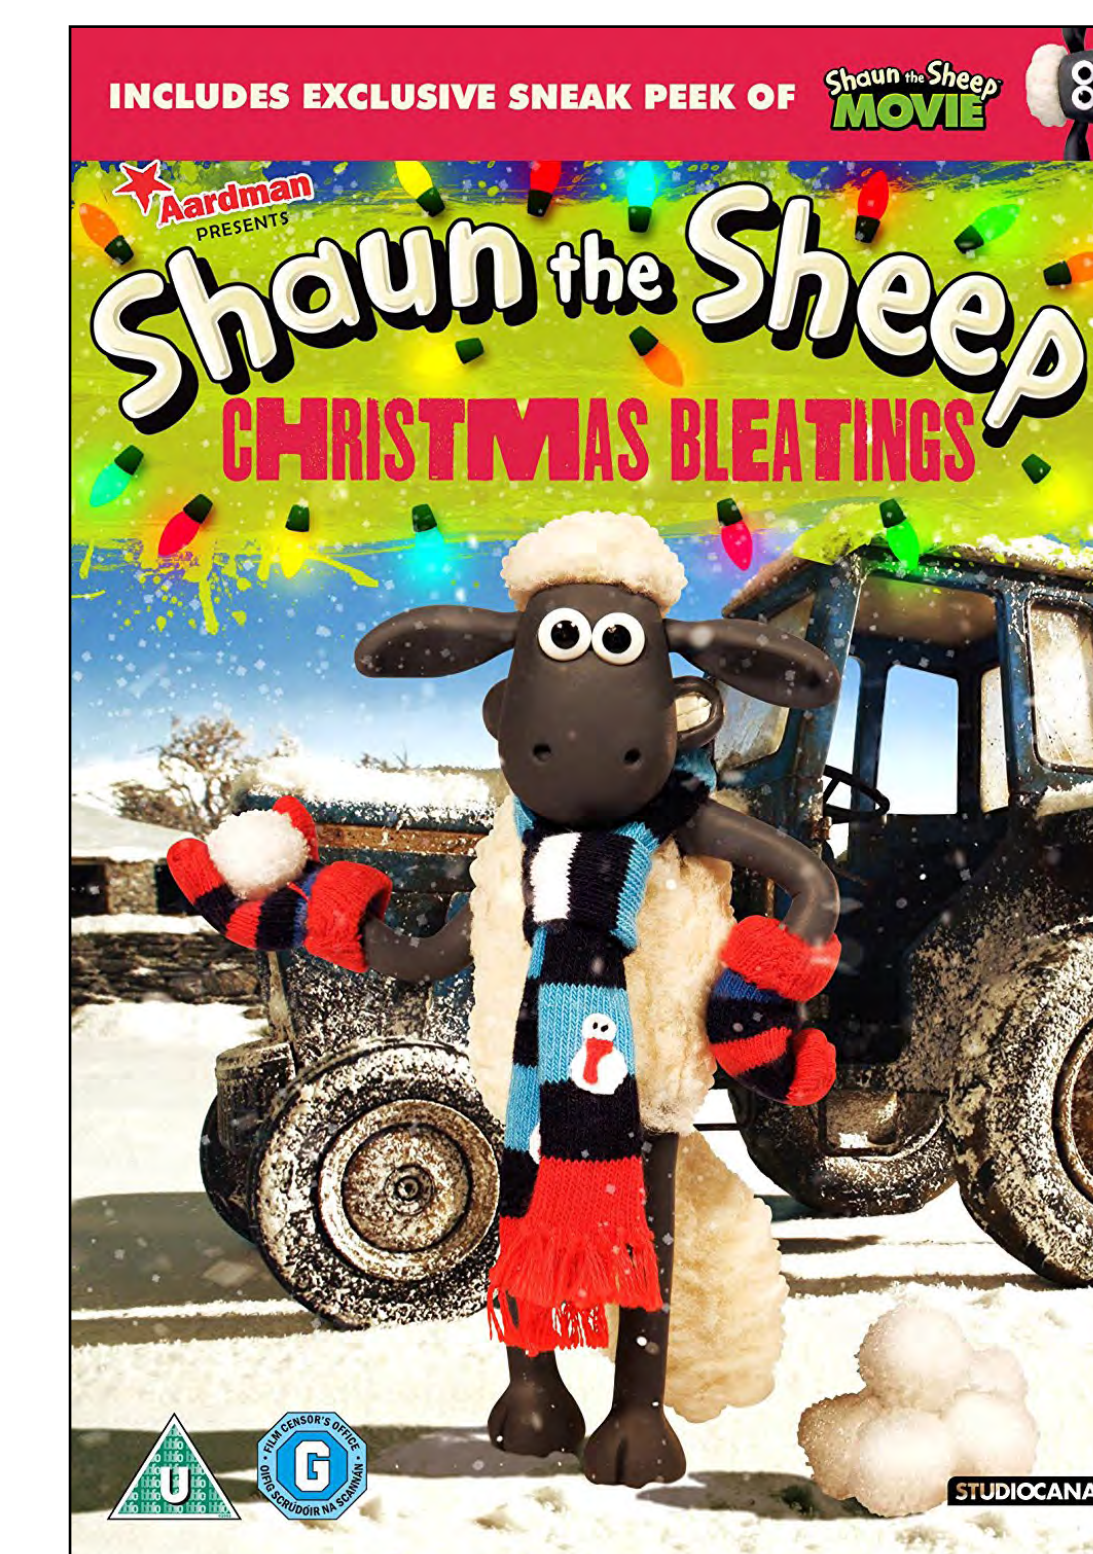

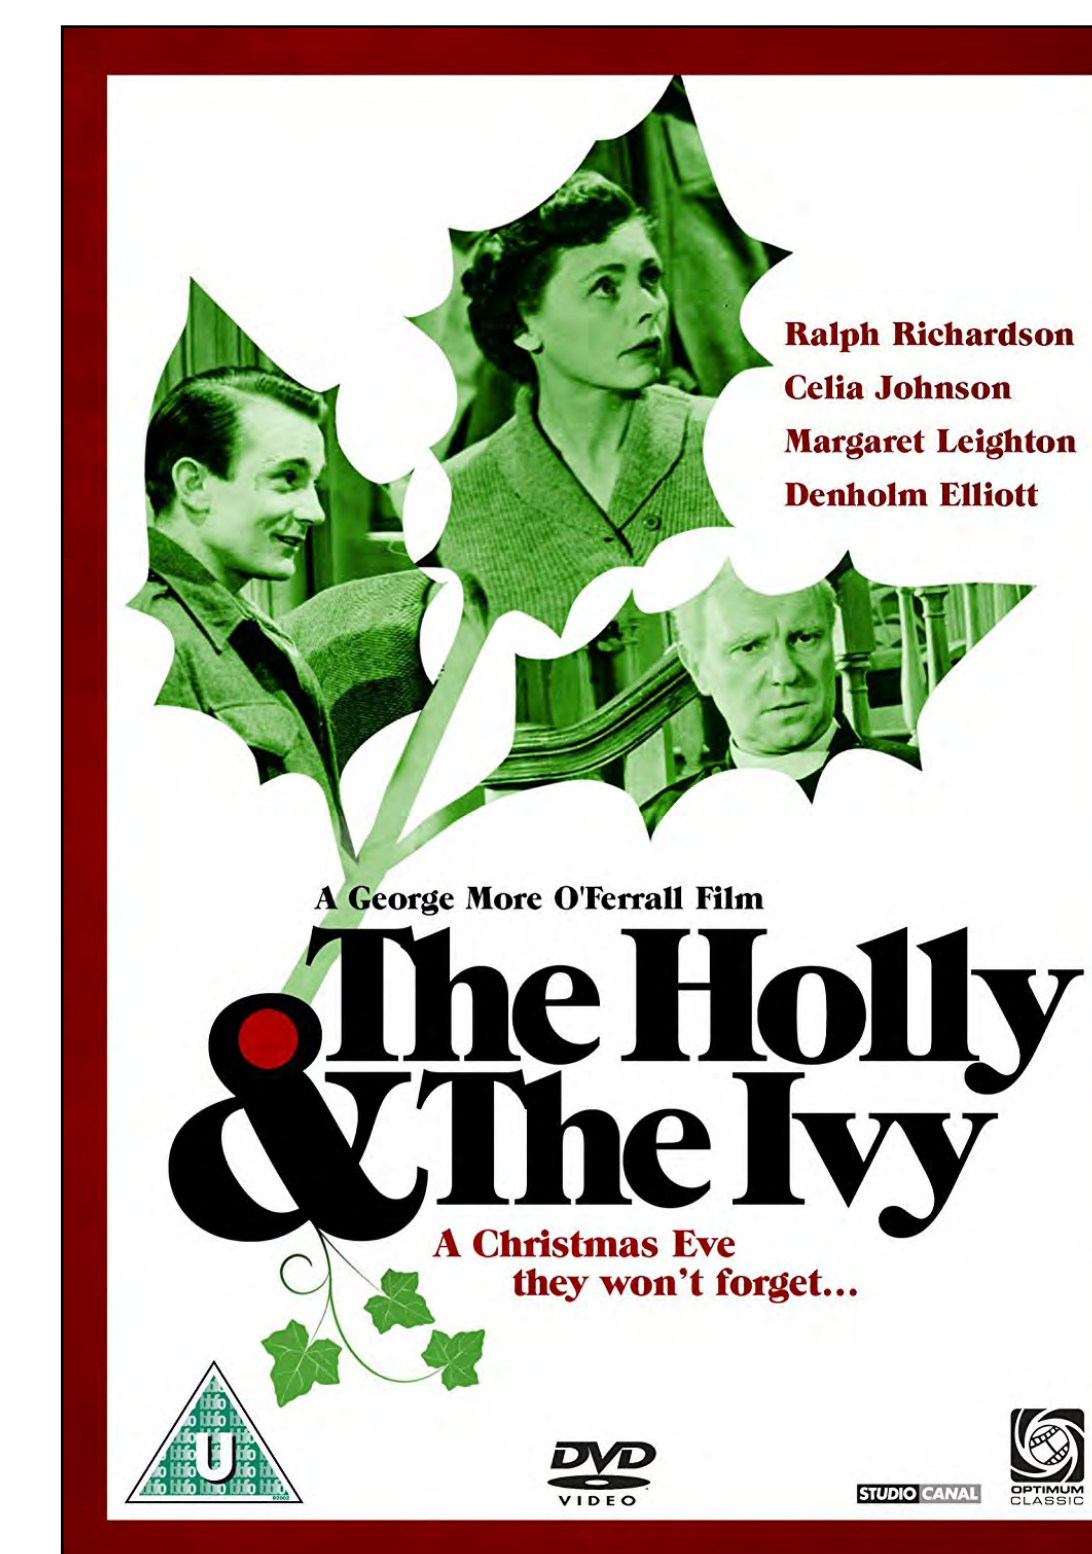

But that does not mean they are unchanged. The gospel means a life can always be turned around through the love and sacrifice of Christ. And a life saved can always find purpose, and a place in his plan of salvation. Our stories are not finished, but they can encourage and inspire others.

So this collection is a celebration of breakthrough, of the process of change, of steps along the way. Of lives and communities that are not yet where they will be, but no longer where they were.

Join us as we thank God for all those taking steps on this journey.

The Academy is where budding angels learn about performing good deeds and grow their wings.
The Littlest Angel, however, much prefers chasing butterflies, climbing trees and engaging in other childish delights. None of it is the same, though, without his 'treasure box', left behind on Earth. The Littlest Angel resolves to go an adventure with Halo (Ed Kelly), his talking dog, to reclaim his most prized possession.
